

Myriad life cover

When you are no longer around, your family and business must continue without you

Life cover takes over when you die. It replaces the income you would've earned during your life, ensuring your family is financially secure and that life goes on for them. It will also help to keep your business running.

Myriad life insurance policies protect you against the financial consequences of dying from natural or unnatural causes. You can be sure that it will allow them to replace your income, cover the lifestyle your family is used to, settle your debt, and help pay for childcare and home maintenance.

Support your family financially when you are no longer around

- Last Survivor Death Benefit covers estate duty at a fraction of the price of a normal death benefit, and your spouse won't need to pay any further premiums after your death.
- Funeral Benefit pays up to R100 000 within one working day when one of the insured lives dies.
- Education Protector pays a cash lump sum for your children's education if you die, become disabled or suffer a functional impairment. And, if you do not claim, we refund all your premiums.

There are additional benefits you can add to your cover – your financial adviser will help you decide.
